You made each one of us better with your loving heart, so full for each of us every day, every second no matter what. I never met a person or another dog that welcomed me more than you always did, that's what I'll remember the most and when I get to heaven I know you'll be there whinning with your toy and wagging your tail. Alex, eventhough it has been a month since your passing, I miss your presence when I take the walk we use to enjoy together. I do have you in my heart and I feel your presence when I am home, I still have your toys in the basket, I don't have the heart to put them away. Miss you always<3
