“ Cricket liked to fart when I came over to visit Christine, but she was cute and entertaining, so I didn't mind. Plus, it made Chris and I giggle nonstop for about an hour. Sweet kitten. Glad she found Christine and her family!! RIP cricket- you were taken too soon.

“ 2 years ago two kittens were saved from a kill shelter. One of them was a little black kitten who weighed only one pound and was covered in fleas. We never thought she would survive, especially when we discovered she had leukemia. Despite having this disease and being extremely anemic she appeared happy when placed in a warm bed and held her friend close to her. We spent hours every day giving her medications and fluids three or more times a day. She began to run and play like any other kitten and she loved to play with the crickets that found their way into the house. She earned the name Cricket and it would often be heard throughout the house when a sock or towel was laying on the floor, a gift from the little klepto-cat. We knew her life would be cut short because of the leukemia, but she lived her life to the fullest each day. We love you, Cricky <3
