“ Losing a pet like Jox Redway is like losing a part of the family. Well Jox had a special bond between my girlfriend Alyssa Redway and him. There relationship together was for 16 years and was difficult to lose for her and her family too. It is amazing how much you can miss a cat. They loved him so much and care about him very much ever since they had him when he was a kitten. I didn't really know and understand that an animal could have a huge effect on people because I never had a pet for a long period of time. Well I noticed that it effected my girlfriend and her family when Jox passed away. There will never be another cat like him. My condolences. I am glad he lived a beautiful life with a wonderful owner. It takes a special cat to make us care so deeply and miss him so greatly.

He was the best cat a woman could ever have. He was smart alert when his sister fell out the window, and he warned us. I love him so much and I miss him so bad but as i kept believing he will always be in my ❤️. Although I can't see him I know he's still here. rest in peace joxer 🙏🙏🙏🙏🙏🙏🙏🙏🙏🙏

“ I never met Joxer but my prayers are with the Redway family. I know the pain of losing a loved one but be assured the grief will be exchanged with beautiful memories.

“I’m Still Here

Your heart has been heavy since that day—
The day you thought I went away—
I haven’t left you I never would—
You just can’t see me, though I wish that you could.
It might ease the pain that you feel in your heart—
The pain that you’ve felt since you’ve believed us to part.
Try and think of it this way, it might help you see—
That I am right here with you and always will be.

Remember the times we were out in the yard,
You could not always see me yet I hadn’t gone far.

That’s how it is now when you look for my face
I’m still right beside you still filling my place.

I find it to be so very sad,
That seeing and believing seem to go hand in hand,
The love and the loyalty the warmth that I gave,
You felt them, did not see them, but you believed just the same.

I walk with you now like I walked with you then—
My pain is now gone and I lead once again.

My eyes always following you wherever you roam—
Making sure you’re okay and you’re never alone.

Our time was too short yet for me it goes on—
I won’t ever leave you, I’ll never be gone.
I live in your heart as you live in mine—
An endearing love that continues to shine.

The day will come and together we’ll be,
And you’ll say take me home boy, and once again I will lead.

Until that day comes don’t think that I’ve gone—

I'm right here beside you, and my love it lives on.”

What a kind face he had with soulful eyes. I hope he never suffered toward the end, I hope it was quiet, peaceful passing.
