“ Stormy "Our Stormy Girl" Loved and remembered always. Your paw print is forever etched in our hearts. We love and miss you but the day will come when one by one we are joined again. Until then have a blast with Winnie & Jerry. Stormy what a great cat you were. Have a blast at the Bridge. xoxox

“ Stormy Girl you came into our lives when we least expected it. You showed up at our patio door in a snowstorm begging for help back in the winter of 2003. You sat there patiently while I frantically ran around the house trying to find something for you to eat. Tuna seemed like a good idea so i grabbed it and you ate hungrily. It kept you long enough while I went to the attic to get a box some blankets and a sweater to keep you warm. I could not bring you inside yet as my other animal a dog was not fond of cats at the time. To my surprise you crawled up inside the rubbermaid box and stayed. Your new home was found. Sadly our Jerry passed away 6 months later so we were able to bring you in to our home. No more cold nights spent outside but when the weather was nice you liked to sunbath on the deck & walk in the grass . Stormy thank you so much for teaching us the simple things in life are what truly matter. You and a cardboard box was your idea of heaven. You would scratch at it and play in there happily and then fall asleep on the blanket. I treasure those memories and so many more with you. So proud that you were the toughest cat on the block but never scratched or bit us you protected your territory but were gentle with us. You were QUEEN of our house and hearts Stormy Girl. Until we meet again. All of you remain in our hearts always. Jerry, Winnie & You. Have a blast all of you at the bridge. Daddy, Mommy, Shiloh, Holly & Stumpy miss you all so much. xoxo.

DA

Hi Stormy Girl. How are you. What a good girl you are. We miss you a lot. You would like Peanut. He would not bother you like Holly did. He is sweet. Stumpy is still around and we want to take her in this winter don't worry we could never replace you Stormy just add to the family. Blessing and love forever until we meet again. XO...
