“ Heaven gained an angel today.....

Today we took our last ride. It has been the hardest day of my life and this was the hardest decision I have ever had to make. One that I will never forget.

We walked into our home this afternoon without you. It was the longest walk I will ever make.

What can I say about my second child? My Tankopotamus! You and Checkers have been the constants in my world - through a divorce, a move and a new job. You were here through dating DISASTERS and more tears than I care to admit. Whether it was playing ballie or spending time with Titi or the Boy or a road trip to see your grandparents - you were always by my side!

I will miss soooo many things: You barking at me because I was not throwing the ballie fast enough for you (you would have been the best 3rd baseman the Mets would have ever had!), your head tilt when I talked to you and the sage advice you always gave!, or when I asked if you wanted a cookie - the tilt was your way of saying - duh mommy!., your night time snuggles or my morning facials - were the best and I know the reason I have no wrinkles is because you licked them away - so I am not sure what I am going to do now!., you should have been a pointer puppy - cause I will definately miss you pointing out to me that one of you had done your business and a cookie was in order, I will miss the way that you harassed everyone to play with you - whether you knew them or not. I will miss how annoyed you would get when I sang your song to you.....but I think the thing that I can not get past is this - how my Tankapotamus will my legs ever get dry again when I get out of the shower?

I can say that I love you with my whole heart, but it is broken now. When Jay placed this necklace around my neck I knew it was a part of me that would never come off.

When our world fell apart, you and your brother saved me - of that ther is NO doubt. As your Nana said - you were with me for a reason. You helped me through more than you will ever know. I just hope I have done the right things and was a good doggy mommy to you.

Checkers is sad tonight and has been looking for you - I will do my best to comfort him.

I know you will be watching over us.

I will meet you at The Rainbow Bridge, where you are no longer sick. Until then have fun with AJ and Bear.

My love, my Tankie, my Tankapotamus you will be in our hearts forever.

Mommy, Checkers, Nana, Poppa, Titi, The Boy and even Daddy love you to the moon and back!!!!
