“ Tink, I still remember the first day you pranced and tap-danced your way into my heart. Even with the stories I heard, nothing could prepare me to meet the little lady that you were and the BIG voice you used to make your presence known! I'll always remember how you tried to sneak your way into other rooms, and I'll cherish the memory of how I held you the last time I visited. You were tiny, but dear Tink, you were mighty! Rest in peace sweet girl. You will be missed.

“ Walking into our home without the sounds of you calling out for my attention is surreal. Your bed still in its place, I look for you each time I walk passed. We were total strangers once, then literally attached at the hip, now the lack of your presence is deeply felt. May you rest in peace Tinky.

“ My mighty drama queen, I will always miss you complaining about mommy taking your bed and sheets to the wash and me taking forever to say hi to you when I came to the house! Rest easy in doggy heaven diva!

“ We will miss you Tink! 😞 I remember when I first met you. Lil sassy but very loving. Never bit me or scared me. And always looking for some belly rubs.

“ Tink is an unforgettable lady who I had the pleasure of meeting. She always makes her presence known, and most importantly, she has been the most steadfast friend to Angie. She is loved and will be missed.

“ Everyone in my life knows that I am allergic to dogs. When my cousin Jason reached out to me and told me that he had a tiny little hairless Chinese Crested, it was meant to be. In June of 2013 I was blessed to have brought you in to my life. You have been with me through over a decade of changes. You brought so much comfort, joy, and comedic relief to our household. You were a diva with the spunkiest attitude. I loved that you had enormous personality despite your small size. I cannot put into words how much we miss you and how empty the house suddenly feels. I had no idea the last time I said your name and told you to go to sleep would be the last. Thank you for all the years you gave us, the memories you left behind, and your paw print in our hearts. I love you my forever companion.
